New User Interface

HealthcareSource is dedicated to improving the experience of everyone that uses our solutions, an endeavor that not only includes delivering the latest features, but also ensuring those features are easy to use. In this spirit, we've given HealthcareSource Reference Assessment a fresh new user interface making it smoother and easier to use than ever.

This new look and feel makes it easier to do what's needed, while keeping all the existing functionality intact. The update also improves usability for devices like smartphones and tablets. With this increased versatility, users are free to complete necessary tasks and questionnaires at any time from any device.

The pages presented to managers, candidates, and the references themselves have been updated with this new interface. In addition to matching the design of our existing suite of talent management solutions, this updated layout provides greatly improved mobile usability – meaning pages automatically adapt to their device, making it easier than ever to take care of business without being confined to a desktop.

Throughout Reference Assessment, you'll still find every feature you know and love. Only now, page layouts have been optimized to improve overall readability while making the most of your device's available screen real estate — whatever size it may be.

The new interface is already up and running, meaning all you need to do is log in to the system as usual. You'll find all the features on the same pages, laid out similarly to how they were before. This redesign allows you to take care of business when it's most convenient for you, no matter if you're sitting at a desktop computer or using a mobile device while on the go.
